

Questions About the Law?

Visit your local public library for information

Public libraries provide:

- A broad range of current legal resources
- Library staff with legal information training
- Information services for the public based on local access to materials and reference help, and linked to the resources of Courthouse Libraries BC.
- Public access computers and free Internet access.
- Hours of opening which frequently include evening and weekend times.

To find your local library, go to www.bclibraries.ca or call your local municipality.

What is the law on...?
What are my rights/responsibilities?
Provincial/Federal law/Municipal by-laws
Court decisions
Law about landlord/tenants, family, consumer, business, wills...

A Legal Information Reading Guide of recommended titles for public libraries is available from www.bclawmatters.ca or call 1.800.665.2570 to order copies. The Guide is divided into the following topics:

Aboriginal law

Criminal law

Abuse & victims of crime

Employment

Business

Not-for-profit organizations

Legislation

General legal reference

Courts & tribunals/legal procedure

Your Money: Debt & consumer

Taxes & finance

Pensions, benefits & welfare

Rights & citizenship

Immigration

Media & internet

Privacy & access to information

Family law

Accidents & injuries

Health

Housing, property & tenancy

Wills, estates & life planning

Motor vehicles

Multilingual Legal Information Titles

LawMatters at your local public library is a program of Courthouse Libraries BC and is funded by the Law Foundation of BC.

See www.LawStartBC.ca or call 1.800.665.2570 for more information about legal information services to the public.